Generous Tax Refunds Giving to Manufacturing Industry Through SR&ED

Within the manufacturing industry there are many areas of uncertainty with aspect to the SR&ED Tax Credit Program. Only a minimal number of companies involved with manufacturing submit a SR&ED claim. The fact is that there are generous incentives that you could be claiming for a substantial refund.

Examples of Eligible SR&ED activities: (Manufacturing Equipment Industry)

- Significant enhancements to current production processes to gain increases in productivity and meet specific production cost targets.
- Development of mechanical devices, electronic hardware, and certain sensor applications to facilitate the interface.
- Designing new applications for existing equipment that require the redesign of components to achieve technological specifications.

If you find your company currently takes part in any of these activities, then why wait to take advantage of the SR&ED tax credit program to receive healthy credit for your innovations?

You are only a few steps away from getting what your company truly deserves for creating, innovating, and developing new products and/or processes.

The Scientific Research and Experimental Development Program:

SR&ED incentives take the form of tax credits, and accelerated or additional tax deductions for expenditures made on research and development. Canadian businesses of all sizes, in all sectors are eligible to receive SR&ED tax credits. The incentives range from 20% of the expenditure, to almost 50% in favorable circumstances.

SR&ED expenditures can include wages, materials, machinery, equipment, overheads, and SR&ED contracts.
